

BISHOPSFORD ARTS COLLEGE PRESENTS

DR. BILL ROGERS

Dr. Bill Rogers is a world renowned authority on behaviour management and this is a rare opportunity to come and take part in one of his special conferences.

FRIDAY FEBRUARY 12th 2010
9.00am—3.45pm

Bill emphasises a peer-support focus across schools for the development and maintenance of positive behaviours within a rights, responsibility and rules focus. He is the author of many journal articles and contributions to magazines and has published a number of books in Australia and the UK.

"Bill Rogers' events are always sold out and anyone who has attended once tries to go again. He presents with vivid authenticity. His workshops last a day and he never loses the riveted attention of his audience."

Professor Tim Brighouse

At this special conference Dr Rogers will outline successful strategies for the management of hard classes in secondary schools. The focus will be on:

- The common reasons why a class is seen as hard-to-manage (or becomes hard to manage).
- How to identify a 'hard class' and set up immediate workable support and action plans.
- Using classroom meetings to work with a 'hard class' and refocus behaviour and learning expectations: fresh-start options.
- Establishment and re-establishment of a class group as it affects the hard-to-manage factors within that class.
- Targeting 'power brokers' and students who act as ring-leaders in 'hard classes'.
- Students who harass and bully teachers, strategies for identification and mediation, accountability and consequences.
- Crucial aspects of colleague support relating to the 'hard class'.
